

Dear Sophomores and Parents,

We have an exciting year planned for you come this fall. This year you will be studying Medieval Literature. The curriculum committee has chosen an ambitious reading list that includes many of the greatest epics, poems, and plays our Western literary tradition has to offer. I am confident that this introduction to the classics will deepen your appreciation of literature and will help you to become better writers.

English Summer Reading

To get a jump on the year, the curriculum committee has assigned The Song of Roland. It is the oldest extant French epic poem and it tells the story of the defeat of Charlemagne's rearguard in the year 778. I'm sure you'll enjoy this inspiring work, which has been translated into English by the great Dorothy Sayers. There are several editions of this book, so be sure you get one translated by Dorothy Sayers.

A couple notes on the text of Song of Roland: The word "paynims" means "pagans." The poet uses the term to refer to Muslims, whom he also calls "Saracens." Also, the original poet makes heavy use of assonance—a repetition of similar vowel sounds—to connect the final syllables of the lines in each laisse (stanza.) In order to translate this literary device into English, Sayers sometimes uses different forms of a proper name depending on what the assonance requires. So for example, Oliver is sometimes called "Othon" or "Olivére." Finally, the poem was originally written in Old French, which was an inflected language. This means that many proper names have an accusative form and a nominative form. So Charlemagne will sometimes be called "Charles" and sometimes "Carlou." Ganelon is also called "Guènes" and Marsile is also called "Marsilion." While these things may at first seem odd to a modern, English reader, now that you've been warned, I hope you won't find them too difficult to navigate. A more complete explanation of the original language and Sayers' translation choices can be found in her Introduction, which I highly recommend.

History Summer Reading

For your Medieval History class, the curriculum committee has assigned Joan of Arc by Mark Twain. This is the story of one of the Church's best-known saints, told in the words of one of America's greatest writers. Students may purchase any edition of this book or listen to it as a book on tape. Students must have completed both The Song of Roland, and Joan of Arc by the first day of class and should be prepared to discuss these works during the first couple weeks of the school year. There is no written assignment over the summer, so just read and enjoy!

Books to Purchase

Next year you will be reading several photocopied selections from larger works. The school has compiled an Medieval Lit Reader that students will purchase for $10 the first week of school. All other works of literature must be purchased by each individual student by the beginning of the school year. Many of these books are available at major book stores, but I suggest ordering them all online because it is usually cheaper. They can all be found at <http://www.amazon.com>. The prices I have listed here are for brand-new books, but most of them can be found used for cheaper on the Amazon website. Used books can take longer to ship to your house, so don't wait until a week before school starts to order!

Continue on back

Students are required to use the particular editions listed below. For example, you must purchase the version of Purgatory that is translated by Dorothy Sayers and not another version.

Students may not use abridged editions of any of these books.

SMA owns used copies of some of these books. They will be sold on a first-come, first-serve basis for $5.00 each at the school office. The office summer hours are 9 AM to 1 PM Monday through Thursday for the months of June and August. The office is closed for July and Fridays.

Song of Roland Translated by Dorothy Sayers	Penguin Classics ISBN 0140440755 $11.50
---	---

Gunnar's Daughter by Sigrid Undset Translated by Arthur Chater	Penguin Classics ISBN 014118020X $11.00
--	---

Sir Gawain and the Green Knight Translated by Tolkien	Mass Market Publisher ISBN 0345277600 $8.00
---	---

Purgatory by Dante Translated by Dorothy Sayers	Penguin Classics ISBN 0140440461 $10.00
---	---

Richard III by Shakespeare	Folger Shakespeare Library Edition ISBN 0743482840 $6.00
-----------------------------------	--

In addition to the works of fiction listed above, each St. Monica Academy high school student must own a copy of the MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers. This book must be purchased at the beginning of a student's high school career. It will be used all four years of high school, and most likely in college as well. If you do not already have a copy of the MLA Handbook, you must purchase one for the upcoming year.

MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers , 6 th Edition by Joseph Gibaldi (the 7 th ed is also ok)	Modern Language Association of America ISBN 9780873529860 $14.00
--	--

I look forward to seeing familiar faces again and to meeting all our new students in the fall. Enjoy your summer and be sure to read!

Mrs. Christine Halpin
English Dept.

Continue on back